Wichita police investigate woman's death as a homicide

WICHITA (AP) — Wichita police are investigating the death of a woman in her 60s as a homicide.

KAKE-TV reports that the woman was found dead Wednesday morning in her home. Police initially thought she died of natural causes. But authorities later began suspecting foul play, in part because the woman's sport utility vehicle wasn't found until Wednesday night.

Authorities are combing the vehicle for evidence. The name of the woman wasn't immediately released.

Anyone with information is urged to come forward.
